Theodore Finch is fascinated by death, and he constantly thinks of ways he might kill himself. But each time, something good, no matter how small, stops him. Violet Markey lives for the future, counting the days until graduation, when she can escape her Indiana town and her aching grief in the wake of her sister’s recent death. When Finch and Violet meet on the ledge of the bell tower at school, it’s unclear who saves whom. And when they pair up on a project to discover the “natural wonders” of their state, both Finch and Violet make more important discoveries: It’s only with Violet that Finch can be himself—a weird, funny, live-out-loud guy who’s not such a freak after all. And it’s only with Finch that Violet can forget to count away the days and start living them. But as Violet’s world grows, Finch’s begins to shrink.

It's the mid-70s and beautiful Bonnie Nolan (Silverstone) gave up her acting dreams long ago so she could play dutiful housewife and mother. She's planning a birthday party for her husband Steve, and she can't even buy him a watch without him knowing about it because she doesn't have her own checking account. Bonnie raises their two daughters -- Jessica, a wide-eyed innocent beauty -- and Becca, a defiant teen. Steve is a real estate agent who believes that a woman's place is in the home. When Bonnie tries to get him to let her have her own checking account, Steve harshly shuts her down. Bonnie's best friends are Diana, chic and progressive, and Kathleen, boozey and gorgeous. Kathleen has a new boy toy, Greg, who Bonnie thinks is just another gold digger because Kathleen's family is very wealthy. Bonnie starts to notice odd things about Steve, like the fact that he's wearing new cologne, he has clothes she doesn't recognize, and he's coming home late. One night when Steve calls and says he's going to be at the office late, Bonnie takes the girls, drives to his work and follows him as he drives to a house. A beautiful red head comes out and kisses him and Bonnie's worst fears are confirmed. On the way back, Bonnie and the girls stop for some dinner and then are followed by some creepy guys. Bonnie yells at them and they back off, impressing Becca and Jessica. Bonnie confronts Steve when he gets home and he admits to having an affair, but says that it doesn't mean anything and that nothing should change. Bonnie is shocked by his callousness and the fact that he just wants to go on pretending they can be a couple. Bonnie tells Steve she wants a divorce and holds a knife to his throat and says she wants him gone that night. Jessica gets upset when Steve leaves and she gets mad at Bonnie.

A poignant, hilarious, and inspiring memoir from the first Latino and openly gay inaugural poet, which explores his coming-of-age as the child of Cuban immigrants and his attempts to understand his place in America while grappling with his burgeoning artistic and sexual identities. Richard Blanco's childhood and adolescence were experienced between two imaginary worlds: his parents' nostalgic world of 1950s Cuba and his imagined America, the country he saw on reruns of The Brady Bunch and Leave it to Beaver—an “exotic” life he yearned for as much as he yearned to see “la patria.” Navigating these worlds eventually led Blanco to question his cultural identity through words; in turn, his vision as a writer—as an artist—prompted the courage to accept himself as a gay man. In this moving, contemplative memoir, the 2013 inaugural poet traces his poignant, often hilarious, and quintessentially American coming-of-age and the people who influenced him.

Owen will star as Alexander Fox, a bookseller who leaves the U.S. after a personal tragedy to begin a new life abroad. The tiny eponymous country in which he finds himself is an idyllic escape, offering Fox the chance to reinvent himself. Settling into its grand — and only — hotel, he quickly becomes entangled with the ever-present locals as the mystery of his origin deepens. An Australian couple takes an unsettling interest in the attractive newcomer, and Andorra's matriarch seems to recall him from long ago. When a woman's body is found almost immediately upon his arrival, the local lieutenant becomes strangely convinced that Fox is responsible and he soon finds himself in a crisis of conscience and identity in this foreign country from which he may not be able to escape.

Richard Jewell is a supply room clerk at the small business administration, and has aspirations to work in law enforcement. Here he befriends struggling attorney Watson Bryant, who feels out of place with his colleagues who work for expensive law firms, including Cash MacArthur. Jewell receives a job as a detective at a hotel and says goodbye to his friend Bryant. After going from job to job after complaints, Jewell becomes a security guard at Centennial Park for concerts during the 1996 Olympics. One day he witnesses a military backpack that was left and calls it in as a suspicious backpack. He evacuates people as the bomb squad is called in, and after they validate there is a bomb inside the bag, it explodes. Even though there are casualties, Jewell is considered a hero for his efforts in saving people. The FBI become suspicious that he found the bomb, so they bring him in as a suspect. After they begin to question him, he realizes he needs a lawyer and calls his old friend Bryant. Bryant takes on the case even though Jewell doesn't have any money.

An apocalyptic event killed millions and left the world inhabited by ghosts. Ghosts can't communicate or touch people in this world. The ghost remnants exist and appear as if they were in a routine. The film opens nine years after the event in a small town (Greenville, Illinois). Dreading the alarm clock that's buzzing next to her bed, we meet our heroine, Veronica "Ronnie" Calder (15). She lives alone with her mom ever since her father died during the event; something that Ronnie can't get over. She's never dealt with her father's death and it surely doesn't help that his ghost remnant spirit joins them for breakfast every morning. One morning in the bathroom, Ronnie is freaked out by an attractive teenage ghost named Brian. He has written a word on the mirror before he vanishes. Ronnie looks at the word on the mirror: RUN. Looking for someone to explain to her if a ghost can actually communicate to the living, her teacher, August Bittner, tells her it's not possible. August Bittner is a charming and smart man. He has a daughter, Eva, who is Ronnie's age. He assures Ronnie that know ghost is trying to kill her. Later at school, a popular, handsome boy (Kirk) tells Ronnie that a ghost appeared to him and he saw a vision of Ronnie choked and dead in a ghost's eye. The two decide to team up and investigate. They soon discover that the pastor's daughter, Mary Greer, was killed and abducted a few days from now, four years ago. The date of Mary Greer's birthday is on a leap year...the same birth date as Ronnie. Three other girls had died, and everything linked back to them working for a Dr. Steiner. They meet Dr. Steiner, who now lives in a homeless shelter. He tells them of his theory: that you can bring the dead back to life by transferring their spirit into the body of another in the moments immediately after their death. The catch must be that the dead and the living share the same birth date.

The true story of the internet phenomenon. Parsons will play BuzzFeed editor Matt Stopera, who in 2014 had his iPhone stolen. Unbeknownst to him, the cellphone made its way to China and, a year later, random pictures began appearing on his photo stream, including a number of pictures of a serious-looking man in front of an orange tree. The editor did a series of stories about the incident, and the story went viral in China, exploding on social platform Weibo with more than 20 million views in 24 hours and over 100 million total shares. There, the online community dubbed the man Li Hongjun ("Brother Orange") and helped Stopera track him down. Stopera eventually sought out Hongjun in China, with both becoming overnight celebrities. Back in the U.S., the two appeared on Ellen. The movie's story follows an unlikely, accidental friendship that transcends cultural divides.

A high-concept premise played deadly straight. The Violator is a notorious serial killer who has been murdering women in Detroit, using a drone with very sophisticated computer/internet interfacing to track and film his victims. When The Violator (aka Ramsey) is finally killed by a bolt of lightning while holding the drone, he manages to somehow transfer his consciousness into the drone, and seeks out the one woman Ramsey really wants: his ex-wife, Rachel, now happily married to Chris. As Rachel and Chris eventually become helplessly aware of its intent, the relentless, deadly drone goes about its brutal business of separating Chris from Rachel, and finally getting her to himself.

Empress will tell the storied tale of the only female empress in the history of China —Wu Zetian, who ruled during the Tang dynasty (618-906 A.D.) — a time of relative freedom for women. She was known for her wit, intelligence and humor as well as being ruthless, cunning and a political force to be reckoned with. The series will follow her ascent through the court of Emperor Tai Tsung; life as his favorite concubine — and ultimately her rise to power. McGregor will play the two central characters brothers Emmitt and Ray. Emmitt Stussy is the Parking Lot King of Minnesota. A handsome, self-made, real estate mogul and family man, Emmitt sees himself as an American success story. His slightly younger brother, Ray Stussy, on the other hand is more of a cautionary tale. Balding, pot-bellied, Ray is the kind of guy who peaked in high school. Now a parole officer, Ray has a huge chip on his shoulder about the hand he's been dealt, and he blames his brother, Emmitt, for his misfortunes. Winstead will play Nikki Swango, a crafty and alluring recent parolee with a passion for competitive bridge playing. Nikki is a woman with a plan, focused on always being at least one move ahead of her opponents. (January 6 - May 2)

Despite the fact that Archie and Sonny do all sorts of dirty jobs for their Mafia boss Don Blatto, he still plans to arrange for their immediate destruction. A hair's breadth away from death, the two buddies not only escape their demise, but also become fabulously wealthy. Blatto's children, both child prodigies, learn, through subliminal messages gleaned from TV programs, that an asteroid is heading toward the earth. Because of this, the richest people throughout this surreal America are secreting away all of their wealth in the underground vault of Big Museum. The FBI designs operation "Garlic and Gunpowder", during which the Italian Mafia and the Chinese Triad will annihilate each other in their attempt to take control of the wealth. Archie and Sonny manage to steal an entire van full of cash and they take off for the Tuscany-like countryside to open a winery... and emerge from the despicable Mafia intrigue smelling like roses.

 Doug Olsen was oblivious to the signs his marriage was in trouble until his wife Barbara has an affair with an NFL legend that he idolizes. When Barbara declares they need to take a "temporary break" from their marriage, Doug is thrown helplessly into the single world. When Doug meets Amy, the hottest, most exciting girl he'd ever met which causes him to feel unleashed and inspired. The only caveat is that she's 22 years old. And Doug is certainly not. At the same time, his wife Barbara has also thrown herself into the single world and has realized a lot has changed since the last time she was there. She finds herself mustering up the courage to do things she never would in order to find out who she is and whether this marriage is worth holding on to. This is a provocative, unpredictable character comedy where each character journeys to answer the age-old question...Is the grass really greener?

It's Christmas time at a mall in Brooklyn and Amanda Hansen takes her daughter Hailey to see Sonny Shine, a popular children's performer. But Hailey speaks to an imaginary friend and wanders off. She's snatched up by a bad man in a Santa costume. We meet Nick Sax (Meloni), a broken and hollow man, drunk at a bar. A messenger brings him an envelope with three photos. Elsewhere, we meet the four Fratelli brothers who have a similar envelope with Nick's picture. The youngest brother, Mikey, has just returned suddenly from Sicily after meeting with Don Columbo who passed away soon after. Mikey is shaken up and doesn't want to go take Nick out, but he tags along at his brother's urging. The brothers go to take Nick out, but it becomes clear that Nick set them up. Nick kills three of the brothers but he wasn't expecting a fourth brother and Mikey shoots Nick in the stomach. But Mikey is out of bullets. Mikey tells Nick he can give Nick something worth more than money -- a password. But Nick doesn't want any part of it. Nick shoots Mike in the chest, but then has a heart attack. The cops arrive and so does detective Meredith McCarthy who clearly recognizes Nick. She questions a hooker who witnessed everything who says Mikey told Nick some kind of password. McCarthy gets Nick an ambulance and tells the paramedics to keep him alive at all costs. On the way, Nick wakes up and starts treating himself with morphine and nitroglycerine. That's when he notices a blue, winged cartoon horse sitting on his chest. This is Happy. Nick thinks he's hallucinating but Happy says Nick is the only one that can see him and that a girl named Hailey is in trouble. But Nick passes out again. Meanwhile, McCarthy is on the phone with Blue, a mob boss and uncle to the four dead Fratelli brothers. But Blue only seems to care about the password. McCarthy promises to talk to Nick. Blue calls a guy named Smoothie, who appears to be a surgeon, but it's soon clear that he's a torturer and that Nick is on his way to a mob hospital. (January 30 - February 16)

The many contentious and self-serving wives of country music icon Eddie Ray Banks (Kober) come together after his unexpected death at his comeback concert, to decide what to do with his legacy, which amounts to a half finished McMansion, a theater, and a lot of debt. As the women decide, with varying degrees of enthusiasm, to put on a tribute concert featuring an Eddie Ray Banks impersonator, they're stunned by the news that Eddie Banks did not die a natural death: he was poisoned, and most likely by one of them. Seymour will play Lorna Larson Banks, Eddie's gorgeous, tough-as-nails and force-to-be-reckoned-with first wife who parlayed her early career success as a duo with Eddie into a huge solo career that eventually matched or even eclipsed her former husband's. Now one of the most famous women in country music, Lorna has her own successful theater in Branson and is slightly out of touch with reality as a result of being in the public eye for so long. She and Eddie have one daughter together, April, but Lorna hasn't spoken to her since April published a salacious tell-all memoir. (January 12 - 24)

The dramatic account of a small band of Special Forces soldiers who secretly entered Afghanistan following 9/11 and rode to war on horses against the Taliban. Outnumbered forty to one, they pursued the enemy across mountainous terrain and, after a series of intense battles, captured the city of Mazar-i-Sharif, which was strategically essential if they were to defeat the Taliban. The bone-weary American soldiers were welcomed as liberators, and overjoyed Afghans thronged the streets. Then the action took a wholly unexpected turn. During a surrender of six hundred Taliban troops, the Horse Soldiers were ambushed. Dangerously outnumbered, they fought for their lives in the city's immense fortress, Qala-i-Janghi, or the House of War. At risk were the military gains of the entire campaign: if the soldiers perished or were captured, the effort to defeat the Taliban might be doomed.

About the crazy story of Tonya Harding, she was the ice princess who emerged from a poor upbringing and rough childhood in Portland to rise to the top of the sport of figure skating with a ferocious determination and athleticism that allowed her to become the first American woman to complete the triple axel in major competitions. That propelled her to victory in the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, and second in the World Championships. She was expected to battle Nancy Kerrigan for gold in the Olympic Games in Lillehammer. Of course, Harding is mostly known for the infamy that occurred when her husband, Jeff Gillooly and a couple of hired thugs tried to incapacitate Kerrigan by breaking her leg. They merely bruised Kerrigan, got caught, and Gillooly turned against his wife as he tried to stay out of jail. Kerrigan wound up winning the Silver Medal at that Olympics, and the completely distracted Harding finished eighth as her life was circling the drain. As the ensuing scandal unfolded, the USFBA stripped Harding of her 1994 championship and banned her for life.

Killing Eve revolves around Villanelle, a psychopathic assassin and Eve, the woman charged with hunting her down. Eve is a bored, whip-smart, pay-grade security services operative whose desk-bound job doesn't fulfill her fantasies of being a spy. Villanelle is an elegant, talented killer who clings to the luxuries her violent job affords her. The two fiercely intelligent women, equally obsessed with each other, go head to head in an epic game of cat and mouse. The series is described as a combination of brutal mischief-making and pathos with sharp humor, originality and high-stakes action.

This is the story a woman, Millie (Berry) and her 7 foster children, who live in South Central during the Los Angeles riots of 1993. Millie's huge heart and addiction to rescuing children, leads her to take in more children than she can handle. The story revolves around her family and the experiences they encounter preceding, and immediately after the Rodney King verdict is read. As the riots erupt, all of Millie's kids get caught up in one way or another. With the help of her neighbor, Obie (Craig) who is a loner and eccentric outcast, the two venture out into the madness in search of her children. In the process, the unlikely couple find solace in each other as well as romance. In the dystopian world of the LA riots, Kings examines all that was true to South Central Los Angeles; the people who lived there, those caught in the crossfire, and police who tried to control without understanding and empathy. Mid 90s Los Angeles is a cesspit of crime, poverty, and racism. It's also home to one of modern history's most infamous unsolved murders: the drive-by shooting of The Notorious B.I.G. which came just months after the gangland execution of his great rival Tupac Shakur. The LAPD – tasked to bring this crumbling city to order – can only add fire to the flames as corruption eats at its core. Black cops die at the hands of their white colleagues, LA's finest are implicated in robberies and drug deals, and dubious officers moonlight for infamous gangsta rap label Death Row Records. The chiefs will do anything to avoid negative publicity, even if it means turning a blind eye to the truth. Two decades on from the murder, Jackson, a less than scrupulous journalist whose entire career is based around one award-winning and flawed investigation into the shooting, and Poole, a disgraced former cop who just can't let the case drop, come together as reluctant partners to navigate the web of corruption once more. Labyrinth is the compelling story of two broken men and their mutual hunt for the truth. As the pair delve deeper into the mire of scandal and deception, this powder-keg tale systematically unravels the reputation of the city's law enforcement, politics and justice system, while introducing us to a new kind of hero. The story centers on the real lives of Jenny and Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels and the two sisters — Mary and Lizzie Burns — who he loved and who loved him, and the Marx daughters — Jennychen, Laura, and Eleanor. Illicit affairs, revolutionary plots, murder-suicide pacts, midnight escapes, aristocratic luxury and Dickensian poverty — the true story of the Marx dynasty outdoes even the most fanciful of today's invented soap operas, all against the background of a world on fire and the formation of ideas that still transform today's global society.

With wit and warmth, Julie Klam chronicles her adventures in finding a home for the world's sweetest pit bull, fostering a photogenic special-needs terrier, and diving under a train to save an injured stray in New Orleans. Along the way, she finds that helping dogs in their fight to survive puts our own problems in perspective, and shows that caring for others, be they canine or human, can sometimes be the best way to care for ourselves. A hilarious and moving testament to the powerful bond between people and dogs, this is a book for anyone whose life has been changed—for the better—by an animal.

In the aftermath of the Civil War, the United States Army was left to fight another battle - a conflict against the Native American population that white civilization decided had overstayed their welcome. Though some at Fort Thayer feel that peaceful relocation remains the best approach, Colonel "Terrible" Bill Lancaster has plans to wipe the Comanches off the face of the earth entirely. When Lancaster captures and holds the wife of a Comanche chief, his new Executive Officer, Major Elroy McQueen struggles to determine how best to handle the bloodthirsty Colonel.

In the frigid pre-dawn hours, in a distressed Midwestern city, hundreds of desperate unemployed folks are lined up for a spot at a job fair. Without warning, a lone driver plows through the crowd in a stolen Mercedes, running over the innocent, backing up, and charging again. Eight people are killed; fifteen are wounded. The killer escapes. In another part of town, months later, a retired cop named Bill Hodges (Gleeson) is still haunted by the unsolved crime. When he gets a crazed letter from someone who self-identifies as the "perk" and threatens an even more diabolical attack, Hodges wakes up from his depressed and vacant retirement, hell-bent on preventing another tragedy. Brady Hartfield (Treadaway) lives with his alcoholic mother in the house where he was born. He loved the feel of death under the wheels of the Mercedes, and he wants that rush again. Only Bill Hodges, with a couple of highly unlikely allies, can apprehend the killer before he strikes again. And they have no time to lose, because Brady's next mission, if it succeeds, will kill or maim thousands. (January 17 - June 2)

Samuel Salomon, a literature professor, has been off work for almost a year after the tragic death of his girlfriend. Samuel has been suffering from a recurring nightmare in which a woman is brutally murdered by a strange ritual. Suddenly, the same woman who appears every night in his dreams is found dead in exactly the same circumstances. Samuel sneaks into the crime scene and there he meets Rachel who has also dreamed about the murder. Together, they will do whatever they can to discover the identity of the mystery woman, entering a terrifying world controlled by the figures who have inspired artists throughout time: The Muses.

DIRECTOR: Kieran Valla (kieranvalla@gmail.com) PM: Robert Lycar CAST: Aubrey Plaza

The series centers around Aubrey Plaza's Nightmare Clinic, where celebrity guests go to get treatment for recurring nightmares. Every episode features two new insane nightmares, inspired by the horrors of modern society and uses tropes and touchstones of the horror genre to guide audiences through its absurd universe. Thanks to advanced technology, we're able to peer into their restless minds, and witness their nightmares in real time. But what is "real" anyway? Maybe it's all just a nightmare in Aubrey's mind. One endless nightmare that could eventually destroy her and the entire world. In the pilot's first nightmare, Aubrey Plaza is Julie Jacobs, a nerdy 16-year-old teen who is desperate to be famous on a video sharing social media site called MeNow. After clicking on a suspect ad promising to turn her into a social media star, Julie Jacobs is suddenly confronted by her cool, sexy new alter-ego Julie Foolie, who has posted a new video to Julie's account that shows her fake-killing her cat. Instantly her number of 'MeLikes' and followers shoot up. Julie Foolie convinces Jacobs to click the button again, and the next video captures Foolie in the closet while Julie's mom is berating Julie's step father Warren for never being able to get it up. Foolie turns their dialogue into an auto-tuned song and the internet goes nuts. Julie Jacobs thinks Foolie crossed the line and that she's going to get in trouble, but Foolie says old people aren't on MeNow. Except Warren does see the video and tries to delete Julie's MeNow account. Foolie convinces Julie to click on her one more time and Foolie ends up exploding Warren's head. Julie becomes an instant sensation, but she's horrified by what Foolie did. She tries to seduce Foolie and makes out with her so hard that Foolie gets wet and malfunctions. But Julie becomes trapped inside the computer.

Based upon the epic and captivating first-hand account of Vietnam veteran Tim Carmody, whom along with seven others was recruited by the U.S. government for a top-secret mission to aid in the coup d'état of the Ghana government that ultimately went horribly wrong. In 1986, Carmody, a Vietnam veteran and co-founder of the Rhodesia Veterans Association, was recruited by the U.S. government for a top-secret mission to deliver six tons of weapons to the pro-U.S. rebels near Ghana, in an attempt to overthrow the government. While en route, their mission was compromised and aborted. Awaiting extraction in Brazil, their boat, "The Nobistor," was overtaken by the ruthless Policia of Brazil. Ultimately Carmody and his team were sent to one of the worlds most dangerous prisons. With the U.S. government and CIA abandoning them, their only mission now was survival. The Nobistor Affair is a chapter in American history the government many have never heard of.

In this apocalyptic epic that begins in a gloomy near-future, gasoline is $13 a gallon; New Orleans has become an uninhabitable, toxic swamp after a series of devastating hurricanes; the U.S. is steadily losing the war on terror; and the future of humanity hinges on the actions of a young girl. Six-year-old Amy Harper Bellafonte, abandoned to the care of Memphis nuns by her prostitute mother, and her protector, disillusioned FBI agent Brad Wolgast, are at the epicenter of a battle to preserve the human species after a government military experiment to create a "super-soldier" goes awry. Using an exotic virus found deep in the South American jungle, scientists have discovered that it has the ability to bestow vast strength and instantaneous healing abilities on humans, with one serious side effect: it turns its victims into bloodthirsty (literally) monsters. Based on the Justin Cronin novel.

Sharp Objects centers on reporter Camille Preaker (Adams) — fresh from a brief stay at a psych hospital — who faces a troubling assignment: She must return to her tiny hometown to cover the murders of two preteen girls. For years, Camille hardly has spoken to her neurotic, hypochondriac mother or to the half-sister she barely knows: a beautiful 13-year-old with an eerie grip on the town. Now, installed in her old bedroom in her family's Victorian mansion, Camille finds herself identifying with the young victims — a bit too strongly. Dogged by her own demons, she must unravel the psychological puzzle of her own past if she wants to get the story — and survive this homecoming.

The resident doctor attempts to find a cure before the infected, nymphomaniac inhabitants spread their legs — and the parasites. The new Shivers will be updated for today's social and sexual realities. In a post-HIV world, where people interact through screens rather than skin, the parasite breaks down those digital barriers. This is a world that is both more liberated than that of 1975, and more fearful and uptight.

Follows the saga of the Roys, a fictional American global-media family that is not only rich and powerful but also powerfully dysfunctional. The drama will explore family loyalty, international business, and the perils of power in the 21st century. Cox will play Logan Roy, the tough, powerful, and aging patriarch of the Roy family and head of a family-controlled international media conglomerate. Strong will portray Kendall Roy, eldest son from Logan's second marriage, currently a Division President at the family firm and the heir apparent. Culkin is Roman Roy, Logan's outspoken, fun-loving son and Kendall's younger brother. Though still on the board of directors at the firm, he no longer works there. Snook is Shiv (Siobhan) Roy, Logan's only daughter and younger sister to Kendall and Roman. Like Roman, she sits on the board of directors but does not work at the firm and has been pursuing a career in politics. Braun will play Greg, Logan's less than competent nephew and a management trainee at one of the firm's theme parks. Macfadyen is Tom, Shiv's ambitious partner/fiancé and a senior executive at the firm. (November 17 - December 13)

Based on the play by Tracy Letts, Superior Donuts follows the relationship between the owner of a donut shop, Arthur, his new young employee, Franco (Fowler), and their patrons in a gentrifying neighborhood of Chicago. Fowler's Franco is a high-energy, fast-talking force of nature who sees Superior Donuts as a symbol of everything he loves about the neighborhood — it's authentic and real. As Arthur's new (and only) employee, he's going to make it his mission to drag the shop — and Arthur — into the 21st century.

Northern France, 1918. World War One is reaching its bloody climax. The end can't come soon enough for shell-shocked tunneller Canadian Abraham Berton. He's saved countless lives but barely survived the horrific battles fought deep beneath the trenches—now he dreams of a new life with his beautiful French girlfriend. Berton's superiors, however, have just learned of a top-secret underground German base and need his expertise to get a team inside. He pleads with them not to send him. They give him no choice. Deep beneath the surface, German special weapons officer Florian Reiner has lost control of a highly contagious biological weapon, which turns its victims into mindless killers. Berton and a team of Canadian, British and American troops soon find themselves trapped 100 feet underground with hordes of the infected, a rapidly spreading disease, and a team of German Stormtroopers dispatched to clean up Reiner's mess. Berton's only option is to implode the base and bury the infectious bio-weapon deep underground in the hopes that it never surfaces again. But Reiner still believes his weapon can knock the Allies out of the war and will stop at nothing to see it unleashed on the Western Front. (November 21 - December 16)

A single-camera comedy about a hip-hop artist-turned-mayor that centers on a struggling hip-hop artist who runs for mayor to promote his mixtape – and wins. Courtney Rose is a talented but struggling hip-hop artist who’s been toiling away in obscurity for years. He performs at small, grassroots shows around town, but despite his best efforts, he can’t seem to get any attention from radio stations and record labels. And yet, the guy is a quintessential optimist – a dreamer through and through. When Courtney’s out and about in the neighborhood – strutting around in his peacock “Muppet Couture” style – everyone seems to come up and say hello. And why shouldn’t they? He’s the coolest, most fun dude in town, and if you don’t believe it, just ask Courtney himself.

Dell (Hart) is a middle aged black man struggling to pay his rent in New York City. He has a chance meeting with a quadriplegic man named Phillip (Cranston) and his assistant, Yvonne. Phillip takes a liking to him, and insists that Yvonne call him to interview for a job as his new driver and primary caregiver. Yvonne is shocked, but does as she is told. Dell shows up for the interview with a very poor resume, and is clearly the least qualified of all candidates, but manages to land the job after being selected by Phillip based on gut instinct. Phillip lives in a Park Avenue penthouse, his fabulous wealth a far cry from Dell's underprivileged background. Dell gleefully moves in with Phillip, especially enamored with his garage full of luxury cars. Phillip and Dell quickly develop a powerful friendship. Dell brings a missing element of fun and free spirit into Phillip's life, and Phillip introduces Dell to high art such as painting and the opera. After initial resistance, Dell embraces these arts, and begins painting on his own. He finds out that Phillip has been exchanging love letters with a mysterious woman named Lily, who he has never met in person. Dell forces Phillip to call her and leave a voicemail, but she does not respond. Dell begins to notice that Yvonne might have an attraction to Phillip. (January 16 - March 17)

A big-screen adaptation of British TV series that kicked off when three armed robbers are killed during a heist. They are survived by their widows, who use a cache of books detailing the men's past robberies to pull off a raid themselves. The film will diverge from the series in that it will be contemporary set in U.S. city and feature four widows. Erivo will play Belle: a widowed mother-of-two who works as a dental technician. FX PRODUCTIONS 10201 West Pico Boulevard Building 103, Fourth Floor, Los Angeles, CA 90067 310-369-1000

On July 17, 2002, something (referred to as a plague) simultaneously kills every mammal possessing a Y chromosome - including embryos, fertilized eggs, and even sperm. The only exceptions appear to be Yorick Brown, a young amateur escape artist, and his Capuchin monkey Ampersand. Society is plunged into chaos as infrastructures collapse and the surviving women everywhere try to cope with the loss of the men, their survivors' guilt, and the knowledge that humanity is doomed to extinction. Vaughan meticulously crafts the new society that emerges out of this chaos, from the conversion of the phallic Washington Monument into a monument to the dead men, to the genesis of the fanatical ultra-feminist Daughters of the Amazon, who believe that Mother Earth cleansed itself of the "aberration" of the Y chromosome, to male impersonators becoming valued romantically and professionally.
