Lewis is a seemingly ordinary guy but under the surface he hides a singular obsession – revenge. The focus of this obsession is Cathy (Reilly). In broad daylight, Lewis kidnaps Cathy and takes her to his home in the middle of nowhere. But this is no impulse crime and it's clear he's planned this meticulously. He's built a soundproofed cell measuring 10 feet by 10 feet where he will extract a dark secret from Cathy's past. But there is more to Cathy than meets the eye. As Lewis' motive for the kidnapping reveals itself, it's clear that Cathy will not become a victim and is a formidable match for her kidnapper. (Due to go into production in Q1, 2017.)

In the wake of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, Malin, a Russian literature professor at The University of Havana, is separated from his family and job when he's sent to work as a translator between Cuban doctors and children sent from the USSR to receive medical treatment for radiation poisoning. Torn from the abstract world of academia and forced into the relentlessly real world of medicine, Malin must find ways to cope in order to stop his growing depression. When he meets a child who tells him a story, Malin connects with the kids and finds his way through. Just as he begins to adapt to his new job and understand its importance, the Berlin Wall falls and Cuba enters the deepest economic crisis the island has ever known. But Malin is now so entrenched in the lives of the Chernobyl Children that he doesn't notice his young family is suffering. He must find his way back to his wife and young kids through the lessons he learns from the children in the hospital – and become a better person on the way. (January 9 - February 8)

When Adam Freedman — a skinny, awkward, inexperienced teenager from Piedmont, California — goes to stay with his older sister Casey in New York City, he is hopeful that his life is about to change. And it sure does. It is the summer of 2006. Gay marriage and transgender rights are in the air, and Casey has thrust herself into a wild lesbian subculture. Soon Adam is tagging along to underground clubs, where there are hot older women everywhere he turns. It takes some time for him to realize that many in this new crowd assume he is trans—a boy who was born a girl. Why else would this baby-faced guy always be around? Then Adam meets Gillian, the girl of his dreams — but she couldn't possibly be interested in him. Unless passing as a trans guy might actually work in his favor.

The Alienist is a psychological thriller set in the Gilded Age of New York City in 1896, a city of vast wealth, extreme poverty and technological innovation. When several haunting, gruesome murders of boy prostitutes grips the city, newly appointed police commissioner Theodore Roosevelt calls upon criminal psychologist (aka alienist) Dr. Laszlo Kreizler (Bruhl) and newspaper reporter John Moore (Evans) to conduct the investigation in secret. Using the emerging disciplines of psychology and early forensic investigation techniques, these social outsiders tracks down one of New York City's first serial killers. Known as an alienist – one who studies mental pathologies – Dr. Kriezler works as a specialist in deviant behavior. His profession, along with his careless intensity, makes him a social pariah in some circles, despite his striking good looks and a sophisticated sensibility. Kreizler is passionate about his work and tireless in his efforts to seek out the depraved killer whose vicious, barbaric and ritualistic deeds have terrorized the city's poorest residents. In doing so, he hopes to also unravel the traumatic mysteries of the human psyche, especially his own, and answer the question behind what makes a man into a murderer.

It's the mid-70s and beautiful Bonnie Nolan (Silverstone) gave up her acting dreams long ago so she could play dutiful housewife and mother. She's planning a birthday party for her husband Steve, and she can't even buy him a watch without him knowing about it because she doesn't have her own checking account. Bonnie raises their two daughters -- Jessica, a wide-eyed innocent beauty -- and Becca, a defiant teen. Steve is a real estate agent who believes that a woman's place is in the home. When Bonnie tries to get him to let her have her own checking account, Steve harshly shuts her down. Bonnie's best friends are Diana, chic and progressive, and Kathleen, boozy and gorgeous. Kathleen has a new boy toy, Greg, who Bonnie thinks is just another gold digger because Kathleen's family is very wealthy. Bonnie starts to notice odd things about Steve, like the fact that he's wearing new cologne, he has clothes she doesn't recognize, and he's coming home late. One night when Steve calls and says he's going to be at the office late, Bonnie takes the girls, drives to his work and follows him as he drives to a house. A beautiful red head comes out and kisses him and Bonnie's worst fears are confirmed. On the way back, Bonnie and the girls stop for some dinner and then are followed by some creepy guys. Bonnie yells at them and they back off, impressing Becca and Jessica. Bonnie confronts Steve when he gets home and he admits to having an affair, but says that it doesn't mean anything and that nothing should change. Bonnie is shocked by his callousness and the fact that he just wants to go on pretending they can be a couple. Bonnie tells Steve she wants a divorce and holds a knife to his throat and says she wants him gone that night. Jessica gets upset when Steve leaves and she gets mad at Bonnie.

Set in the present day, Edward (Powers), mid-30s, lives alone in a two-story Victorian house worn down by time. He awaits packages from the local mailman containing rocks with locations such as "Baton Rouge, LA" painted upon it in black letters. He has been receiving these as messages from his former lover, an ethereal and mysterious woman named Sparrow (Fox) who has been driving cross-country and living out of her van. In the loneliness of his empty house, Edward spends evenings curled up in a fetal position clutching the most recent rock and surrounded by a huge half-circle of about twenty rocks, each with a different town painted on them. Carl (Jones), a small-town mailman in his late seventies, teaches the route to his replacement, Tom (Paolo), early-twenties. It's all about the people. "Mind your business and don't ask too many questions; mail's a private thing to most people. And treat 'em like family." The final stop on their route is Edward's old house, and Carl lays out for Tom some of the troubled backstory. He was a shut-in for 33 years, living alone, talking to himself, day in and day out, and then Sparrow literally crashes into his life in the middle of the night, smashing through a fence that he never repaired since. The neighbors found it strange when they married two weeks later, and strange tales circulated about their unusual behavior. Noises from the woods out back, the two of them naked and running wild in the woods. And a year and a half later, Sparrow and her van just vanished. No one knows why. But Carl explains that every week, Edward still gets a package from her.

Fran (Stone) is a reserved, high school history teacher in a rut. Mim (Margolyes) is an eccentric free spirit who believes 70 is the new 40. They are also mother and daughter and their relationship is not exactly easy. But when Mim reveals she is dying and wants to go on a road trip to tick items, one by one, off her preposterous bucket list, Fran feels that she has no choice but to come along for the ride. She has to learn to let loose and Mim has to learn to think of someone else for a change. Both of them have to make the most of the time they have left together and find a way to accept the fact that it will soon be at an end. But with Mim and Fran, tragedy always somehow ends up as comedy.

The sequel continues the story of Nica Pierce (Dourif), the beautiful, disabled heroine framed for the bloody murders of her entire family by the crafty killer doll at the end of Curse Of Chucky. Now confined to an asylum for the criminally insane, Nica has endured four years of hypnosis, mind-altering drugs, and electroshock treatments, only to become erroneously convinced of her own guilt. But when her psychiatrist introduces a new therapeutic “tool” to facilitate his patients’ group sessions — an all-too-familiar “Good Guy” doll with an innocently smiling face — a string of grisly deaths begins to plague the asylum and Nica starts wondering if maybe she isn’t so crazy after all. Meanwhile, Andy Barclay (Vincent), Chucky’s now-grown-up nemesis from the original Child’s Play, races to Nica’s aid, but he’ll have to get through Tiffany (Tilly), Chucky’s long-ago bride, who will do anything to help her beloved devil doll. The world war II biopic tells the true story of Captain Ernest Evans, the US Naval Commander posthumously awarded the congressional medal of honor for his actions during the Battle off Samar, part of the Battle of Leyte Gulf that is considered perhaps the largest naval engagement in history. The Battle off Samar saw the Taffy 3 task group taken by surprise after the much larger third fleet was lured off by Japanese decoys. Forced to conduct a suicidal defense against a vastly superior Japanese group attempting to attack ground forces on Leyte, Taffy 3 ultimately took one third of the larger battle’s total casualties holding them off. The group critically contributed to what became the final defeat of the Japanese navy and Evans, in command of the destroyer USS Johnston, took a crucial leading role in the Battle off Samar, ultimately going down with his ship.

Based on the true story of the race between Thomas Edison (Cumberbatch) and George Westinghouse (Shannon) to develop a practical system of electricity and sell their respective inventions to the country and the world. The film will follow the events known as the “War of Currents,” which took place in the late 1880’s between Edison, who backed his direct current for electrical distribution, and Westinghouse who promoted alternating current. The rivalry got so intense that Edison launched a smear campaign against Westinghouse in an attempt to highlight the safety issues with alternating current. Edison lobbied against AC in state legislatures, spread disinformation on “fatal AC accidents,” and even went so far as to publicly execute animals through electrocution. Edison’s efforts were naught however, as alternating current prevailed as the superior and cost-effective system, yet his demonstrations led to the invention of the electric chair and his direct current is still used in nearly all modern electronic devices today.

Set in current day Copenhagen, Embassy Down combines action with multi-layered political intrigue and human drama. When terrorists storm the opening party at the new United States embassy and take the guests hostage, a chain of events is triggered that plays out across the Danish capital with repercussions around the world. The story explores the complex personal relationships between hostage and captor inside the besieged embassy, and the intricate political maneuverings outside.

Four hundred years after the extinction of the human race, a small group of humans are revived by an alien civilization. The aliens — who we never see but rather communicate via robot drones — claim that they want to restore the human race. The reborn humans are skeptical. There's an agenda here, one that involves powerful secrets hidden on Earth. Unless the humans can band together and work as one, they will never discover the truth about their unique existence or survive the many dangers that threaten to annihilate the human race all over again.

The high-concept comedy centers on Josh Futterman, a janitor-by-day/world-ranked-gamer-by-night who is recruited by futuristic soldiers to travel back in time and save the world. Josh hasn't amounted to much. He still lives at home with his parents, has dead end job as a janitor at Devlin, a sexual disease research centre. On account of sickly adolescence, he's socially inept, has low self-esteem, can't approach women. The only thing he excels at is Cybergeddon, a video game set in a dystopian future where his character, Future Man, has the top ranking in the world. When Josh beats the final level, he's visited by characters from the game who claim it is a training manual and he's been selected to travel back in time and help them save the world.

Doug Olsen was oblivious to the signs his marriage was in trouble until his wife Barbara has an affair with an NFL legend that he idolizes. When Barbara declares they need to take a “temporary break” from their marriage, Doug is thrown helplessly into the single world. When Doug meets Amy, the hottest, most exciting girl he’d ever met which causes him to feel unleashed and inspired. The only caveat is that she’s 22 years old. And Doug is certainly not. At the same time, his wife Barbara has also thrown herself into the single world and has realized a lot has changed since the last time she was there. She finds herself mustering up the courage to do things she never would in order to find out who she is and whether this marriage is worth holding on to. This is a provocative, unpredictable character comedy where each character journeys to answer the age-old question...Is the grass really greener?

It's Christmas time at a mall in Brooklyn and Amanda Hansen takes her daughter Hailey to see Sonny Shine, a popular children's performer. But Hailey speaks to an imaginary friend and wanders off. She's snatched up by a bad man in a Santa costume. We meet Nick Sax (Meloni), a broken and hollow man, drunk at a bar. A messenger brings him an envelope with three photos. Elsewhere, we meet the four Fratelli brothers who have a similar envelope with Nick's picture. The youngest brother, Mikey, has just returned suddenly from Sicily after meeting with Don Columbo who passed away soon after. Mikey is shaken up and doesn't want to go take Nick out, but he tags along at his brother's urging. The brothers go to take Nick out, but it becomes clear that Nick set them up. Nick kills three of the brothers but he wasn't expecting a fourth brother and Mikey shoots Nick in the stomach. But Mikey is out of bullets. Mikey tells Nick he can give Nick something worth more than money -- a password. But Nick doesn't want any part of it. Nick shoots Mike in the chest, but then has a heart attack. The cops arrive and so does detective Meredith McCarthy who clearly recognizes Nick. She questions a hooker who witnessed everything who says Mikey told Nick some kind of password. McCarthy gets Nick an ambulance and tells the paramedics to keep him alive at all costs. On the way, Nick wakes up and starts treating himself with morphine and nitroglycerine. That's when he notices a blue, winged cartoon horse sitting on his chest. This is Happy. Nick thinks he's hallucinating but Happy says Nick is the only one that can see him and that a girl named Hailey is in trouble. But Nick passes out again. Meanwhile, McCarthy is on the phone with Blue, a mob boss and uncle to the four dead Fratelli brothers. But Blue only seems to care about the password. McCarthy promises to talk to Nick. Blue calls a guy named Smoothie, who appears to be a surgeon, but it's soon clear that he's a torturer and that Nick is on his way to a mob hospital. (January 30 - February 16)

The many contentious and self-serving wives of country music icon Eddie Ray Banks (Kober) come together after his unexpected death at his comeback concert, to decide what to do with his legacy, which amounts to a half finished McMansion, a theater, and a lot of debt. As the women decide, with varying degrees of enthusiasm, to put on a tribute concert featuring an Eddie Ray Banks impersonator, they're stunned by the news that Eddie Banks did not die a natural death: he was poisoned, and most likely by one of them. Seymour will play Lorna Larson Banks, Eddie's gorgeous, tough-as-nails and force-to-be-reckoned-with first wife who parlayed her early career success as a duo with Eddie into a huge solo career that eventually matched or even eclipsed her former husband's. Now one of the most famous women in country music, Lorna has her own successful theater in Branson and is slightly out of touch with reality as a result of being in the public eye for so long. She and Eddie have one daughter together, April, but Lorna hasn't spoken to her since April published a salacious tell-all memoir. (January 12 - 24)

The dramatic account of a small band of Special Forces soldiers who secretly entered Afghanistan following 9/11 and rode to war on horses against the Taliban. Outnumbered forty to one, they pursued the enemy across mountainous terrain and, after a series of intense battles, captured the city of Mazar-i-Sharif, which was strategically essential if they were to defeat the Taliban. The bone-weary American soldiers were welcomed as liberators, and overjoyed Afghans thronged the streets. Then the action took a wholly unexpected turn. During a surrender of six hundred Taliban troops, the Horse Soldiers were ambushed. Dangerously outnumbered, they fought for their lives in the city's immense fortress, Qala-i-Janghi, or the House of War. At risk were the military gains of the entire campaign: if the soldiers perished or were captured, the effort to defeat the Taliban might be doomed. (Early-December - Mid-February)

USA in the 1970s. We follow the highly intelligent Jack through 5 incidents and are introduced to the murders that define Jack's development as a serial killer. We experience the story from Jack's point of view. He views each murder as an artwork in itself, even though his dysfunction gives him problems in the outside world. Despite the fact that the final and inevitable police intervention is drawing ever near (which both provokes and puts pressure on Jack) he is – contrary to all logic – set on taking greater and greater chances. Along the way we experience Jack's descriptions of his personal condition, problems and thoughts through a recurring conversation with the unknown Verge – a grotesque mixture of sophistry mixed with an almost childlike self-pity and in-depth explanations of, for Jack, dangerous and difficult maneuvers.

Bart Millard had his share of challenges growing up. His parents divorced when he was young and he suffered tremendous abuse at the hands of his father. Then life took an unexpected turn. After Bart's father was diagnosed with cancer, Bart was the only one around to care for him, and through that process the two began to mend their broken relationship, find common ground in renewed faith, eventually forming an unbreakable bond that lasted until the day of his father's death in 1991, when Bart was just 18. Believing that his father was now in heaven, Millard began writing the words "I can only imagine" on items when he was thinking about his father. Ten years later, in another unexpected twist, those words became the pivotal lyrics (and title) to a song that would be the debut hit for Bart's band, MercyMe, leading to major crossover success on both Christian and mainstream music charts, multiple awards, and eventually selling 8-million copies (and counting). The series stars Van Damme as a heightened version of himself — an action movie actor who comes out of retirement to resume his alter-ego, undercover private contractor Jean-Claude Johnson. Johnson's cover as the lead role in a re-imagined action film version of Huckleberry Finn lands him right back in the midst of the danger he secretly always craves — but most importantly, back in the orbit of Vanessa, his fellow operative and the woman he loves. Foster will play Vanessa, an international undercover operative whose cover is working as a hair and makeup artist for film shoots. She spent years as his right-hand woman and fell in love with him on their last assignments together. She's now determined to keep him at arm's length when he deliberately gets himself assigned to her new mission in Bulgaria. Rashad will take on the role of Jane Hardy, Jean-Claude's agent who doubles as the head of the secret-ops group for which he and Vanessa work. Arias will portray Luis, a young secret agent who works with Vanessa. (January - May)

This is the story a woman, Millie (Berry) and her 7 foster children, who live in South Central during the Los Angeles riots of 1993. Millie's huge heart and addiction to rescuing children, leads her to take in more children than she can handle. The story revolves around her family and the experiences they encounter preceding, and immediately after the Rodney King verdict is read. As the riots erupt, all of Millie's kids get caught up in one way or another. With the help of her neighbor, Obie (Craig) who is a loner and eccentric outcast, the two venture out into the madness in search of her children. In the process, the unlikely couple find solace in each other as well as romance. In the dystopian world of the LA riots, Kings examines all that was true to South Central Los Angeles; the people who lived there, those caught in the crossfire, and police who tried to control without understanding and empathy. Mid 90s Los Angeles is a cesspit of crime, poverty, and racism. It's also home to one of modern history's most infamous unsolved murders: the drive-by shooting of The Notorious B.I.G. which came just months after the gangland execution of his great rival Tupac Shakur. The LAPD – tasked to bring this crumbling city to order – can only add fire to the flames as corruption eats at its core. Black cops die at the hands of their white colleagues, LA's finest are implicated in robberies and drug deals, and dubious officers moonlight for infamous gangsta rap label Death Row Records. The chiefs will do anything to avoid negative publicity, even if it means turning a blind eye to the truth. Two decades on from the murder, Jackson, a less than scrupulous journalist whose entire career is based around one award-winning and flawed investigation into the shooting, and Poole, a disgraced former cop who just can't let the case drop, come together as reluctant partners to navigate the web of corruption once more. Labyrinth is the compelling story of two broken men and their mutual hunt for the truth. As the pair delve deeper into the mire of scandal and deception, this powder-keg tale systematically unravels the reputation of the city's law enforcement, politics and justice system, while introducing us to a new kind of hero. Here is the astonishing true story of Ruth Harkness (Ferguson), the Manhattan bohemian socialite who, against all but impossible odds, trekked to Tibet in 1936 to capture the most mysterious animal of the day: a bear that had for countless centuries lived in secret in the labyrinth of lonely cold mountains. In The Lady and the Panda, Vicki Constantine Croke gives us the remarkable account of Ruth Harkness and her extraordinary journey, and restores Harkness to her rightful place along with Sacajawea, Nellie Bly, and Amelia Earhart as one of the great woman adventurers of all time. Ruth was the toast of 1930s New York, a dress designer newly married to a wealthy adventurer, Bill Harkness. Just weeks after their wedding, however, Bill decamped for China in hopes of becoming the first Westerner to capture a giant panda—an expedition on which many had embarked and failed miserably. Bill was also to fail in his quest, dying horribly alone in China and leaving his widow heartbroken and adrift. And so Ruth made the fateful decision to adopt her husband's dream as her own and set off on the adventure of a lifetime.

This is the true story of William Pitsenbarger, a war hero of the highest order, an Air Force medic who personally saved over 60 men, before being killed in the bloodiest battle of the Vietnam War. Given the chance to escape on the last helicopter out of the battlefield, Pitsenbarger remained to save and defend all those soldiers who were left, but was eventually killed by an enemy bullet, sacrificing his own life for his comrades. For his heroic deeds, Pitsenbarger was awarded the highest military honor a soldier could get, the Congressional Medal of Honor. This medal is awarded for personal acts of valor, above and beyond, the call of duty. But before Pitsenbarger was given the medal, it was taken away from him for unknown, but seemingly political reasons. The Last Full Measure is the touching story of Pitsenbarger's father who together with all survivors of the Vietnam battle petitioned the government to give this fallen war hero the medal he so well deserved. Investigator Scott Huffman is assigned to the case to investigate the reason for this grave injustice. During his research, Scott begins to discover the private and political reasons why certain corrupt politicians denied Pitsenbarger's medal. Scott personally visits a number of the survivors of that terrible battle, all of whom unite for a march on Washington to give back to William Pitsenbarger the honor that has been so ingloriously taken from him. Driven by their conviction, Huffman and Pitsenbarger's friends and family reclaim his well deserved award in an emotional outpouring that honored this truly great man. To this day, he remains only of 1 of 2 enlisted airmen to ever receive such an honor.

The single-camera project, about a politically divided family, a comedy that takes a very real look at how today's "politics of division" play out between two opposing pundits who also happen to be married. One's black, one's white; one's left, one's right. Bitter rivals at work on their pundit show "Black & Wright," they have to turn conflict into compromise at home when it comes to raising their kids. Vance will star as Malcolm, a smooth, confident liberal pundit and father of three who arms himself with cold, hard facts and an irresistible easy charm that wins over everyone he meets. Malcolm recently married Libby (Huffman), a strong, brilliant Republican who won his heart by knocking him off his feet. Now they'll forge a new life together at home against all odds while going head-to-head at work on their fiery new political talk show.

A brilliant computer programmer, desperate to save his terminally ill daughter, creates the first-ever piece of self-aware artificial intelligence. But things go terribly wrong when the technology, designed to help injured soldiers, is hijacked by the government and used to create the ultimate robotic weapon. In the near future, a digital cold war has begun and powerful nations race to design super-thinking artificial intelligence. A new strain of polio has also spread around the world and is infecting millions of children. In Iran, engineers have developed a supercomputer that designed spider-like robots that can control humans. One of the engineers, Suri, is a spy. In England, brilliant computer programmer and inventor of the quantum computer, Vincent McCarthy, is brokenhearted by his daughter's severe autism that keeps her in a hospital in a near vegetative state. Vincent works tirelessly at a secret military base designing new artificial limbs and an artificial brain that he hopes one day might cure his daughter. He performs his experiments on severely wounded military veterans who are in prison. One of his patients, James, is quadriplegic and is waiting on new limbs. Another, Ray, is missing half his brain and Vincent is trying to use his artificial brain to help Ray restore his mind but it's not working and Vincent thinks software is to blame. (February 6 - 23)

 When 12-year-old Theo Moses's father is unexpectedly killed, Theo finds that he can no longer perform magic, his one true passion, in front of an audience. It was his father's presence that gave him the strength he needed. But then Theo gets an invitation to Magic Camp—his dad must've sent in his application before he died! Andy Tuckerman (Devine) is a failed genius of a magician, a still-young performer who believes his best days are behind him. A former Magic Camp-er himself, Andy is talked into coming back as a mentor by the enigmatic leader of the camp and famed master magician Roy Preston (Tambor). At Magic Camp, Theo is placed with mentor Andy and his group of underdogs. But when they all come together, they find a way to change each other's lives for the better, a display of symbiotic enrichment that is simply magic.

 As uplifting as the tale of Scrooge itself, this is the story of how one writer and one book revived the signal holiday of the Western world. Just before Christmas in 1843, a debt-ridden and dispirited Charles Dickens (Stevens) wrote a small book he hoped would keep his creditors at bay. His publisher turned it down, so Dickens used what little money he had to put out A Christmas Carol himself. He worried it might be the end of his career as a novelist. The book immediately caused a sensation. And it breathed new life into a holiday that had fallen into disfavor, undermined by lingering Puritanism and the cold modernity of the Industrial Revolution. It was a harsh and dreary age, in desperate need of spiritual renewal, ready to embrace a book that ended with blessings for one and all.

 Ted Kaczynski (Bettany), also known as the "Unabomber," terrified the nation over the span of 20 years from the 1980s through the early 1990s. Manifesto will tell the story of how the FBI brought down one of the most infamous criminal masterminds in the world from the point of view of an FBI profiler. The series will trace how FBI Agent Jim "Fitz" Fitzgerald challenged the "old school" ways with his radical new approach to intelligence gathering. Prior to Fitzgerald's involvement, the profile of the perpetrator took a completely different direction. Fitzgerald had training as a profiler, but it was his focus on linguistics that became vital to breaking the case. He believed that the key to unlocking the true identity of the Unabomber would be found in the language of The Manifesto, a detailed account of some of Kaczynski's plots.

A teenage dirt bike rider stumbles upon an escaped prototype of the most advanced military creation in history, and the two of them become friends. During a motocross race at a dirt arena, 18-year-old Miles Hill crosses the finish line, crashing, but coming in first. Sara Reyes and Miles share a connection, however; she has a boyfriend named Sam. Miles, assessing the damage on his bike, realizes his ignition box is broken. Just as the final race is about to start, Sara gives Miles an ignition box she stole from Sam. The race begins and Miles beats Sam, even though Sam had a better bike, and a whole team to back him up. Meanwhile, 31-year-old Andric, receives a call stating that there's been an emergency at the Robotics Facility where he is the head of the M.A.X. project. Randall tells him that the project went ballistic and escaped. Miles, celebrating his win, gets invited to a party at Sam's house, and though he is reluctant, his father, Chuck, convinces him to attend and to loosen up. Sara and Miles flirt but keep their distance. The next day, Sam persuades Miles to go race with him and his friends so that Scroggins can capture their tricks on go-pros and drones. Sam sabotages Miles' bike by pouring water in his gas tank, causing Miles to crash and leaving him unconscious.

Based on the life of the man whom they claim was one of the most misunderstood golfers in history. Moe 'Pipeline Moe' Norman was a Canadian professional golfer who set numerous course records and dazzled spectators and fellow sportsmen with his unerring accuracy and penchant for holes-in-one. Yet his eccentric behavior – which the producers say was possibly due to an accident in early childhood or a form of undiagnosed autism – meant that he did not earn fame or financial reward during his lifetime and spent much of his career alone and in poverty. (A target for Spring 2017 start of production. Shooting will take place in Canada and the U.S.)

The great Traction City lumbers after a small town, eager to strip its prey of all assets and move on. Resources on the Great Hunting Ground that once was Europe are so limited that mobile cities must consume one another to survive, a practice known as Municipal Darwinism. Tom, an apprentice in the Guild of Historians, saves his hero, Head Historian Thaddeus Valentine, from a murder attempt by the mysterious Hester Shaw -- only to find himself thrown from the city and stranded with Hester in the Out Country. As they struggle to follow the tracks of the city, the sinister plans of London's leaders begin to unfold. (Release Date: December 14, 2018)

In the frigid pre-dawn hours, in a distressed Midwestern city, hundreds of desperate unemployed folks are lined up for a spot at a job fair. Without warning, a lone driver plows through the crowd in a stolen Mercedes, running over the innocent, backing up, and charging again. Eight people are killed; fifteen are wounded. The killer escapes. In another part of town, months later, a retired cop named Bill Hodges (Gleeson) is still haunted by the unsolved crime. When he gets a crazed letter from someone who self-identifies as the "perk" and threatens an even more diabolical attack, Hodges wakes up from his depressed and vacant retirement, hell-bent on preventing another tragedy. Brady Hartfield (Treadaway) lives with his alcoholic mother in the house where he was born. He loved the feel of death under the wheels of the Mercedes, and he wants that rush again. Only Bill Hodges, with a couple of highly unlikely allies, can apprehend the killer before he strikes again. And they have no time to lose, because Brady's next mission, if it succeeds, will kill or maim thousands. (January 17 - June 2)

The story of Ronald Reagan as seen through the eyes of veteran KGB agent Viktor Petrovich, a composite character of KGB agents who closely followed Reagan since his days in Hollywood as an anti-Communist crusader. The film begins with an aging Viktor, now 90 years old, being visited by a young Russian leader who wants to know how the Soviet Union was lost. Viktor, the spy who knows everything there is to know about Reagan, begins recounting the tale of his great adversary: the man the KGB nicknamed "The Crusader", beginning in 1922 when 11 year old Reagan goes through his first life crisis...The film follows the future president's ascent from hometown hero in his native Dixon, Illinois, his Hollywood life as an actor, to the pinnacle of global power in the Oval Office and the fateful day that he narrowly escaped death by an assassin's bullet. We will witness his unwavering vision as he plants the seeds that will bring an Evil Empire to its knees and the world back from the brink of Armageddon.

The story is set in contemporary Russia, and state intelligence officer Dominika Egorova (Lawrence) struggles to survive in the cast-iron bureaucracy of post-Soviet intelligence. Drafted against her will to become a "Sparrow," a trained seductress in the service, Dominika is assigned to operate against Nathaniel Nash, a first-tour CIA officer who handles the agency's most sensitive penetration of Russian intelligence. The two young intelligence officers collide in a charged atmosphere of trade craft, deception, and inevitably, a sexual attraction that threatens their careers and the security of America's valuable mole in Moscow. Dominika winds up seeking revenge against her soulless masters, and living a fatal double life after she is recruited by the CIA to ferret out a high-level traitor in Washington. She also hunts down a Russian illegal buried deep in the U.S. military and, against all odds, to return to Moscow as the new-generation penetration of Vladimir Putin's intelligence service. The film begins with Richard Pryor's childhood in Peoria, Illinois where his home doubles as a whorehouse for pimps and tricks. Here he begins telling his first jokes in his storytelling style to his grandmother, father, Aunt Dee and Uncle. This is also where he can see and hear all of the sexual degradations and goings on that will mark him for the rest of his life and be the subject of much of his early standup. At the young age of 23, after performing on stage in Greenwich Village, he meets with Merv Griffin's booker who gets him on the show. This begins a succession of performing and appearing on the late night talk show circuit from the Tonight Show to Ed Sullivan. One night after his 26th appearance on Merv Griffin, he realizes everyone wants his act to be similar to Bill Cosby's, and since that is not who he is, he shifts gears and becomes the first guest to insult Merv on the show. This culminates as he walks off the stage in the middle of his set at the Aladdin Hotel and Casino with the likes of Dean Martin in attendance after he makes a vulgar joke resulting in disgusted gasps from the audience. During this time, he begins a downward spiral with drugs. Cocaine is his drug of choice.

Everyone has secrets. But these can bring down a nation. In a private bank, 66 safe-deposit boxes are raided. The owner of the bank wants to keep the thefts under wraps but police inspector Paul Gerardi catches wind of the affair. With his incorruptible, old-school morals and devil-may-care attitude, Gerardi throws himself into the investigation, and when some of the key players are murdered, commit suicide or vanish, soon realizes just how big the case is. Gerardi discovers that the victims are members of a secret organization called Salamander, made up of the country's industrial, financial, judicial and political elite, and the safe-deposit boxes contained their most intimate secrets - secrets that could bring down the nation. As he becomes the target of both the criminals and the authorities, Gerardi must quickly find out what their agenda is. And who is behind the thefts.

In Jersey City, narcotics officer Pete Jablonski is in a hurry to meet his wife at the hospital to get an ultrasound after getting stuck working all night. Suddenly he hits a young black teen riding a bike, and the teen looks dead. Pete's superior, Mike Diangelo, and his crew of narcotics officers are there almost instantly and tell Pete to leave and that they'll handle it. Pete is in shock but goes to meet his wife Marie. Elsewhere we meet KJ, an African-American alcoholic prosecutor who no longer believes in the system. She was having an affair with her boss, State Prosecutor James Connelly, but he broke it off so he could run for governor. Meanwhile the teen's body is found at the park. Pete feels guilty and returns to the park where he hit the boy, where police led by Detective Fish are investigating. It turns out the boy is still alive. Next we meet Latrice and Isaiah Butler, who happen to be the black teen's parents and nice churchgoing people. They return home and find their son Brenton isn't there and listen to a voice mail from the police and rush to the hospital.

Sharp Objects centers on reporter Camille Preaker (Adams) — fresh from a brief stay at a psych hospital — who faces a troubling assignment: She must return to her tiny hometown to cover the murders of two preteen girls. For years, Camille hardly has spoken to her neurotic, hypochondriac mother or to the half-sister she barely knows: a beautiful 13-year-old with an eerie grip on the town. Now, installed in her old bedroom in her family's Victorian mansion, Camille finds herself identifying with the young victims — a bit too strongly. Dogged by her own demons, she must unravel the psychological puzzle of her own past if she wants to get the story — and survive this homecoming.

A reimagined pilot of the classic '70s children live-action series. Brothers Johnny and Scotty are spending the summer in Dead Man's Cove, a colorful seaside town, with their Aunt Max and cousin Robyn, when they make an amazing discovery - a real life sea monster. They rescue the lovable Sigmund from a trap set by Captain Barnabas and bond instantly. Along with Robyn, they hide Sigmund from Captain Barnabas (Arquette), who is determined to catch a sea monster, and from Sigmund's sinister brothers, who have come looking for their wayward relative. Along the way, they realize they haven't discovered a monster, they've discovered a friend.

The story follows Laurel & Hardy as they set out on a variety hall tour of Britain in 1953. Diminished by age and with their golden era as the kings of Hollywood comedy now behind them, they face an uncertain future. As they set out, crisscrossing the country, attendances are disappointingly low. But they've always been able to make each other laugh and as the charm and beauty of their performances shines through their audiences laugh too, and they re-connect with legions of adoring fans. The tour becomes a hit, but Laurel & Hardy can't quite shake the spectre of their own past. Long-buried ghosts, coupled with Oliver's failing health, start to threaten their precious partnership. A portrait of the most tender and poignant of creative marriages begins to unfold as the duo, aware that they may be approaching their swan song, try to rediscover just how much they mean to each other.

Set in the thick of a Detroit winter, Stonefly is a psychological thriller driven by family drama, teenage angst and underpinned by a murder mystery. The story chronicles teenager, Mark, who suffers from a rare condition called Hyperthymesia; the ability to recollect minute autobiographic details, as well as the exact emotional state he was in at the time. When Mark falls in love with his classmate Alexandra, he is offered a rare moment of reprieve. The moment is fleeting however; as an unexpected turn of events pulls Mark into a surreal underworld of drugs and murder. Caught between two realities, Mark must exploit the memory he fears to solve the ultimate mystery. (February 14 – March 24)

Ten Days in the Valley follows Jane Sadler (Sedgwick), an overworked television producer and single mother in the middle of a fractious separation. When her young daughter goes missing in the middle of the night, Jane's world — and her controversial police series — implodes. Life imitates art: everything's a mystery, everyone has a secret, and no one can be trusted. Christensen will play Ali, Jane's younger, bossier sister, a capable and pragmatic psychologist who is currently undergoing fertility treatments with her journalist husband, Tom. When she learns her beloved niece has gone missing, Ali rushes to Jane's side to take charge. While Ali is a rock of stability and support during Jane's ongoing ordeal, she can't help but question many of Jane's choices. Struggling with the hormonal effects of her fertility drugs and her less-than-perfect marriage, Ali is going to have to work hard to prevent her own resentment and issues from bubbling to the surface. Gomez will portray David Gomez, who presides over the important LAPD Detective Bureau with the decisiveness and confidence of an oligarch. Gomez is out to clean up the force's bad reputation, which means he has a low opinion of TV cop shows and those who write them. He might want some quid pro quo from Jane in exchange for his department's cooperation. Gurry is Pete, a charismatic, unpredictable music producer who is Jane's ex and the father of her 8-year-old daughter, Lake. A recovering heroin addict, Pete's always been a risk-taker, and has been a disruptive influence in Jane and Lake's lives throughout his rocky, year-long recovery. Jane currently has primary custody of their daughter — but now that he's four months sober, Pete is desperate for that to change and is very quick to judge his ex on all her failings. When Lake goes missing, Pete is the obvious suspect but this righteous, reformed father appears to have an iron-clad alibi for the night of the abduction.

The men on board HMS Terror have every expectation of finding the Northwest Passage. When the expedition's leader, Sir John Franklin, meets a terrible death, Captain Francis Crozier takes command and leads his surviving crewmen on a last, desperate attempt to flee south across the ice. But as another winter approaches, as scurvy and starvation grow more terrible, and as the Terror on the ice stalks them southward, Crozier and his men begin to fear there is no escape.

Follows 14 year old twins Mia and Mackie who have grown up dancing. From the time they were 3 years old, that’s been their passion. They live and breath dance. There’s just one difference. Mia loves tap and Mackie loves jazz. When a popular boy band launches an internet contest to find the perfect dance group for their next music video, the twins each form their own competition group, leading to a battle, at the dance studio and home, which allows their arch rival and neighbor, Avery, the best dancer of all (who knows it too) to get the upper hand in the contest.

A drama set in the trauma department of a central London hospital and tells the story of 15 year old Alex Reynolds who sadly dies under the care of high-achieving trauma consultant Jon Stephens. Alex's father, Dan, believes Jon is responsible for Alex's death and as he strives for justice, he begins to unpick the very fabric of Jon's life. Trauma questions what makes a man good and explores the idea that sometimes the very institutions established to protect us can let us down.

The multi-part series will retell the fall of Troy from the perspective of one family. Described as an epic tale of love, revenge, intrigue and bloodshed, it's set against the backdrop of the war between Greece and Troy and focuses on the collapse of one family. It will go back to the saga's origins: the judgment of Paris, his passionate elopement with Helen, and the ill-starred prophecy surrounding his birth. When the baby Paris is born, the omens foretell that he will bring about the downfall of the city. Queen Hecuba and King Priam are forced to choose whether to abandon their newborn son to the wolves or save him, but risk the safety of their kingdom. Their choice will decide not only the fate of their child, but the very existence of Troy.

A 1930s Soviet censor painstakingly corrects offending photographs, deep underneath Leningrad, bewitched by the image of a disgraced prima ballerina. A chorus of women recount their stories and those of their grandmothers, former gulag prisoners who settled their Siberian mining town. Two pairs of brothers share a fierce, protective love. Young men across the former USSR face violence at home and in the military. And great sacrifices are made in the name of an oil landscape unremarkable except for the almost incomprehensibly peaceful past it depicts.

Friendless and loveless, young and aimless, Lucien (Lucy) Minor is the resident odd duck in his bucolic hamlet of Bury, a weakling and compulsive liar in a town famous for producing brutish giants. When Lucy finds employment—as Udermajordomo, assisting the Majordomo of a remote, foreboding castle—he soon discovers the place harbors many dark secrets, not least of which is the whereabouts of the castle’s master, Baron Von Aux. Along the way, he encounters thieves, madmen, aristocrats, and Klara, a delicate beauty for whose love he must compete. Thus begins a tale of theft, heartbreak, mystery, and cold-blooded murder in which every aspect of humanity is laid bare for our hero to observe.

About former vice president Dick Cheney, the project, will chart Cheney’s jump from his CEO position at Halliburton to his vp role under George W. Bush. While at the White House, he pushed for the post-9/11 war on global terrorism in Afghanistan and Iraq (based on unsubstantiated notions that Saddam Hussein had weapons of mass destruction and was conferring with Al Qaeda), and instituted an "enhanced interrogation program" that included waterboarding. Before Halliburton, he served in the administrations of Nixon, Ford and George H.W. Bush. Often likened to Darth Vader, Cheney is one of the most enigmatic figures in recent political memory.

Julie (Rothe) is popular and charming, but unlike her friends who are happy hanging out at the Galleria everyday, Julie is looking for something more. She's creative and fashion-forward, finding a way to make the 80s Valley Girl style her own. Her charisma and good looks landed her the hottest dude in school, who is unfortunately kind of a jerk. Everyone assumes they'll get married since they've been dating for most of high school. She's trapped in her wealthy, suburban Valley bubble. She feels increasingly claustrophobic in this world until she meets hot weirdo punk rocker Randy. He introduces her to his punk lifestyle and she falls hard. She is in love for the first time and her family and friends don't approve. She must stand up for herself, find her voice, and challenge what it means to be a Valley Girl.

White Boy Rick is about Richard Wershe Jr. who, at the age of only 14, became an undercover informant for local and federal law enforcement agencies in the mid-80s, and then established himself as a major drug dealer. The dual life he led eventually put him into the crosshairs of federal agents when he was found with 17 pounds of cocaine (at only 17 years of age). He was put in jail for life but ethical questions remain as how much the feds were involved in putting him deeper into his life of drugs. McConaughey will play Werhse's father who is a blue-collar factory worker trying to keep his family together as the automotive industry collapses around him in Detroit. (March 7 – May 26)
